To Whom It May Concern:

Enclosed is a report of payments made in calendar year 2006 by AstraZeneca to practitioners in the state of Minnesota. AstraZeneca is providing information in the annual report based on its good faith interpretation of, and compliance with, the Minnesota statutes, sections 151.461 and 151.47(f). Although the Minnesota law states that the reports are "public data," please be advised that AstraZeneca considers the information in this report to be confidential commercial information. AstraZeneca does not publicly release this information or the documents that were used to generate this report. Further, public release of the information in this report, either individually or in aggregate, may harm AstraZeneca, giving AstraZeneca's competitors information that may give them a competitive advantage and undermining the company's relationship with contractors and consultants.

AstraZeneca occasionally makes payments to institutions and business entities which, in turn, may make payments to Minnesota practitioners. For example, AstraZeneca has arrangements with universities and other business entities to conduct research or provide services under which payments may be made by the entity to Minnesota practitioners. The report shows only direct payments by AstraZeneca to practitioners. The company also makes grants to sponsors of independent education activities. In these cases, the independent education provider may make payment to a practitioner who serves in a faculty capacity. As the independent education providers act outside the control or influence of AstraZeneca, any payments by these providers to practitioners are not listed in this report.

AstraZeneca understands that section 151.47(f) of the Minnesota statutes requires pharmaceutical manufacturers to report payments to sponsors of education programs, compensation and reimbursement to healthcare practitioners who serve as faculty at educational or professional conferences, and compensation for professional or consulting services. Section 151.47(f) does not require the reporting of "gifts" to Minnesota practitioners as that term is defined in the related Minnesota statute section 151.461. As noted in the Board of Pharmacy's Frequently Asked Questions (dated February 2006), "[a] meal is not considered a gift if the practitioner is serving on the faculty at a professional educational conference or meeting or if the practitioner is providing to the manufacturer 'substantial professional or consulting services' as part of a genuine research project." AstraZeneca has therefore included reimbursed meal expenses for educators and consultants in the enclosed annual report.

If you have any questions regarding the information submitted, I may be reached at 302-886-4795.

Sincerely,

To Whom It May Concern:

On April 12, 2007, I sent you a report of payments made in calendar year 2006 by AstraZeneca to practitioners in the state of Minnesota. As my cover letter stated, the information contained in that report was based on AstraZeneca's good faith interpretation of, and compliance with, the Minnesota statutes, sections 151.461 and 151.47(f). That report was assembled through a manual process of extracting data from various systems. Despite the diligence that AstraZeneca applied throughout that process, we recently discovered that the information contained in the April 12 submission was incomplete in some respects and inaccurate in others. Improvements instituted in our data collection process have now enabled more comprehensive reporting, and I am therefore enclosing an amended 2006 Disclosure Report.

The enclosure is intended to supercede our earlier submission for 2006. For your convenience, the enclosure contains, for each listed practitioner, both the original reported payment (from the April 12 submission) and the corrected payment amount as re-submitted today. The enclosure reflects the best information currently available, but is still subject to the challenges associated with the manual nature of the data-collection process.

If you have any questions regarding this letter or the enclosure, I may be reached at 302-886-4795.

Sincerely,

Marie L. Martino
